IT'S HUMAN NATURE.

Why does money open the door
To power and delight
While the virtues of a man
Do languish out of sight?
Why is politics a game
That rascals like to play?
Why do magnates in the trusts
Rob people every day?
Why do clothes and polished airs
Look on with ease and mirth
While noting the discrepancies
Of a man of honest worth?
Why is it things are not always
Exactly what they seem?
Why do the cities of the land
With wily villains teem?
Why is a woman said to be
No older than she looks?
Why does an author's publisher
Tell tales about his books?
How can such matters come to pass—
We note them every day?
Because we are human here below—
It is our little way.
—Paul Cook, in Birmingham Age-Herald.

The spring poet crop seems to be unusually late this year.

Society in the Ohio state penitentiary is said to be quite exclusive—banker's row especially.

Wise Mr. Cortelyou. Even a $100,000 salary was no inducement for mixing up in that Equitable row.

The stampede of office seekers to the Isthmus of Panama has been noticeably checked since yellow fever has broken out.

The terrible mental strain has at last been relieved. Young John D. has not grown whiskers during his sojourn in Europe.

Pensacola politics are conceded to be somewhat warm, but if you want the real red hot article by all means go to Jacksonville.

The last survivor of the war of 1812 is dead but there are still about 1,000 people drawing pensions as survivors of veterans of 1812.

Another presidential possibility is Mayor Dunne, of Chicago. The list of possibilities is already reaching alarming proportions.

President Roosevelt's party is said to have killed ten bears, but no one has yet stated explicitly how many Mr. Roosevelt dispatched all by his lonesome.

Sir Thomas Lipton says that as long as he lives he will not rest satisfied until the America's cup is brought to England. We admire your pluck, Tom, but advise you to save your shekels. You just can't have that cup.

Rev. Sam Jones once said: "You can prove anything from the Bible if you select a part here and a part there. I can prove from that Good Book by such a process that a man should hang himself before breakfast. Now watch me read: 'Judas went out and hanged himself.' 'Go thou and do likewise.' What Rev. Jones said regarding the Bible will apply with more or less force to any other book. An instance is the campaign book gotten out against Mr. Bliss which very unfairly quotes parts of his book, mixes it up with other things and changes certain words. Interest in this matter is waning fast, as it is of no importance, but if any one cares to know what Mr. Bliss did say he should read Mr. Bliss's own book and not a campaign dodger gotten up especially to misrepresent him.

Members of the Memphis Southern League aggregation say they will spend half a million dollars, if necessary, to win out. If the ability of the Memphis team was fairly demonstrated upon its recent disastrous swing around the circle, an unusual opportunity is afforded the management to unburden itself of surplus wealth.

THE COMING NAVAL BATTLE IN THE FAR EAST.

If reports from the Far East are based upon fact a naval engagement between Admirals Rojestvensky and Togo cannot be much longer deferred. The battle will, in all probability, take place near the southern extremity of the island of Formosa, where, it is said, the Japanese fleet has taken up a position.

While it is generally believed that the Russian fleet is far superior both in tonnage and armament, there have been no advices by which such belief could be substantiated, and but very little is known of the force that Japan will bring to bear against the Russian fleet. While we have heard a great deal of the Russians there has been absolutely no definite news regarding the Japanese and any statement as to the strength of their fleet is based upon nothing but supposition.

It has all along been the policy of Japan to guard her military and naval secrets while, on the other hand, Russia has been more or less bombastic and has not hesitated to boast of her superiority on both land and sea. It is but natural, therefore, that an impression should prevail that the Russian fleet is really the stronger of the two. However, as the Japanese have demonstrated their resourcefulness as well as fighting ability, it would not be surprising if Togo attacked the Russians with a fleet fully equal if not superior to it—and that it will be superior in marksmanship, at least, goes without saying.

The Street Car Hoodlum.

This journal is a stickler for the rights of citizenship and is against excess of zeal on the part of the authorities; but it confesses to sympathy with those who would like to see the car hoodlum clubbed wherever a policeman can get at him, regardless of his immediate technical rights.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Monument to Southern Women.

There never can be a doubt of the splendid devotion of the Southern women to the cause which the men of the south espoused. The suggestion of a monument in recognition of their sympathy and sacrifice is not inappropriate.—Boston Herald.

Smith Doesn't Care.

They are now to look for the body of Capt. John Smith of Pocahontas fame. Capt. Smith was all right, but what is the matter with honoring some good live person, who really deserves it? Smith isn't caring.—Minneapolis Journal.

Nothing More Natural.

Having demonstrated his ability as a wolf hunter, it is but natural Chicago should want President Roosevelt to take a hand in the teamsters' strike.—Detroit Free Press.

All Answered Alike.

According to the Kansas City Journal, a Kansas man bet that he could invent a question to which fifty persons would give the same answer. The question he invented was: "Have you heard that Smith has committed suicide?" The Kansas man won his bet. The answer was, of course, "What Smith?"—New Orleans States.

Gone By the Board.

On account of his health John D. Rockefeller, Jr. has given up his Bible class until next fall. A lot of good stories for the Monday morning newspapers have thus gone by the board.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

How to Insure Universal Peace

By Captain RICHMOND P. HOBSON, U. S. N., Retired

THE war in the orient continues to disturb the peaceful conditions of commerce and is causing a drift toward a GENERAL WAR.

Therefore, in the interest of peace, to organize the peace forces in America AND IN THE WORLD, and thereby stem the rising tide of war, preventing the spread of the existing war and bringing it to the speediest practicable conclusion, honorable to all, all arbitration treaties negotiated between the United States and other nations should be SPEEDILY ratified. Additional arbitration treaties should be negotiated by the United States, and the present ones SHOULD BE EXTENDED in their scope as far and as speedily as practicable.

AS SOON AS PRACTICABLE THE UNITED STATES SHOULD BRING ABOUT A TRIPLE PEACE COMPACT OR ARBITRATION TREATY AND FORM THE NUCLEUS FOR A PEACE UNION AMONG THE NATIONS.

The United States should continue to urge the convening of the second Hague conference and should urge the establishment of an international parliament and the other machinery necessary to perfect an international organization of peace and should project into the law of nations the principle that WAR HAS BECOME A GENERAL MATTER and is no longer a local affair, and all commercial nations being interested, the question of war should no longer be settled offhand by two nations in passion, but should pass first through a council of the nations.

The United States should take a steadfast stand against any move to extend the operations of the present war farther into the empire of China or any move toward the seizure of China by any power or combination of powers since such action would violate our treaty rights and put in jeopardy our vast commercial interests in that great market AND WOULD ENDANGER THE PEACE OF THE WORLD.

In order to give effect to these peace efforts and build up a bulwark of peace in America, the one great nation of peace, FREE FROM INHERITED HATRED, the blood relation of all nations, the embodiment of the new era of industrialism, built upon peace and justice, the United States, in the sacred cause of enduring peace, should speedily increase its NAVAL strength.

At this critical juncture, where the war in the orient has caused a grouping of the nations of Europe THAT OVERTURNS THE BALANCE OF POWER, giving a preponderance to the side of the nations that would seize China and precipitate a world war in order to restore the balance on the side of peace and prevent militarism from seizing the yellow race with which to perpetuate its reign of war and conquest in order thus to hold the peace of the world and permit the great economic and moral forces to work out the progress of civilization at this juncture, when the poise is so delicate that war or peace with all their possible consequences may hinge upon AMERICA'S CONDITION OF PREPARATION, the United States should hasten with all dispatch the building of new vessels AND THE COMPLETION OF VESSELS NOW BUILDING.

SOUTHERN HOTELS AND CONVENTIONS.

The Tradesman.

Practically every southern city of any prominence is aspiring to be known as a convention city, and all are putting forth their best efforts to secure the holding of conventions within their gates.

These efforts have been quite successful and a number of prominent conventions have been and are yet to be held in the south, but the Tradesman desires to utter a note of warning to those cities to the effect that if the hotels are going to make these gatherings an occasion for extortions, instead of doing such places any good they will be the source of positive harm. No one feels kindly toward a city in which this kind of a "hold up" has been committed upon him, and it is certain to be passed around when other conventions for that city are sought, and all will know that it is a good place to stay away from.

There are two cases now in point, one for a convention just held in Savannah, and the other for one that will meet in Atlanta tomorrow. At the Savannah convention the DeSoto Hotel charged extortionate prices, and had miserably poor service, while the Atlanta hotels are proposing to charge for the delegates and attendants on the National Manufacturers' Association about double their usual rates. This is little short of an outrage, and is pretty certain to prevent any other conventions going to either of these cities in the future unless there is an absolute guarantee of no excess in rates.

Hotels can afford to make a reduction for these conventions, for they always double up in the occupants of rooms, and in that way get more than they are accepting all the time from others. If the local committees who have the arrangements in charge for these conventions would only do their duty in advance these conditions could not exist anywhere, and possibly the blame lies more with these than with the hotels, who doubtless act on the principle that they are justified in getting all they can, but all the same it is a disgrace wherever perpetrated, and for the honor and credit of the south we trust that there will never be any more such practices by any southern hotels.

PRaise FOR THE STATE LAWMAKERS.

Jacksonville Metropolis.

Be it said to the credit of the Florida legislature, that while many bills have been introduced and few passed, a number have been killed that deserved killing. Others to escape such fate were withdrawn. It is better to kill a bill in the legislature than in the courts. There can be nothing gained to the state by certain bills before the legislature, or that were before it, because they divide our people and set man against man. What Florida wants are just laws, and above all a united people. Just so long as we are one people the state will continue to progress, but let one set of men procure legislation against another set as an advantage, and our harmony is destroyed, and our great progress as a state is gone.

The Metropolis is very glad of the wisdom displayed and discretion exercised in disposing of some measures before the house and senate, as it proved that the best interests of the people were being well considered. The legislature adjourns on June 24, and those measures of most interest to all the people should have precedence of consideration. It is not a safe plan to wait until the eleventh hour to attend to important business. Let the work progress in turning down objectionable bills, withdrawing others and passing of those of real merit and worth.

Florida has had all the factionalism wanted, and much of it was started by the passage of certain laws. The famous or infamous house bill No. 4, regulating municipal affairs in Jacksonville, was an instance of disturbance and arraying citizen against citizen. It is better to have no law if it is not just and for the benefit of all alike. A bad law always works hardship and makes enemies of friends, and we certainly don't want any such, but instead a united and a harmonious citizenship.
